HOW HAPPY COULD I BE WERE

The Sacramento Union tells a story of a young man of Sacramento who was engaged to be married to a good looking young lady at 8 o'clock Saturday even-ing, and all arrangements were made on her part for the ceremony; but for some reason he concluded to avoid fulfilling the contract, and left for Virginia city by the contract, and left for Virginia city by freight train Saturday forenoon, much to the distress of the bride that was to have been. The young man had been very intimate with a certain woman of un-doubted reputation on Second street, and to her he sent a dispatch from a way station directing her to join him over the mountains. And so it hap-pened that both women made up their minds to seek an interview with I otherio minds to seek an interview with I otherio by Sunday's train to find him, each knowing that the other was on board. It was reported that the Second street de-moiselle remarked that if her respectable nival made an effort to capture his affec-tions when they met, she would shoot her. They found him at Roseville, where he had waited for the female to join him. Seeing him on the platform, the respectable woman interviewed him, and he was evidently about to agree to return with her to the city, when the other fe-male interfered and ordered him to go with her. Angry words were soon ex-changed, each woman drew a pistol and prospects were good for a first-class row, when bystanders interfered. Finally, the three parties got aboard the cars and entinued on their way to Virginia city.

Or miners wages in Eureka, the Sentinel, of Sunday last, says:

At this inopportune moment, when every kind of business is almost at a standstill on account of the prevailing horse disease, the managers of the Eureka Consolidated Company have made an effort to reduce the wages of miners in their employ. As a consequence of this action, the miners, as might have been expected, have very generally quit work, and will in all probability seek other localities for employment. The furnaces of the company have been shut down, but whether on this account or because of the accumulation of bullion, which cannot be moved away for some that as it may, the attempt to cut down the wages of labor will fail, as it has in every mining camp. The experiment was made in White Fine, and all the best miners left the country, and sought work eisewhere; and after a few months' trial of the low wages system, the price of abor was raised to its old rate-four dollars per day—and good miners were thus induced to return. The wages of this kind of labor never ought to be lower the above-named standard price, for it will not pay men to work for less, in a new country, where the cost of liv-ing is so high.
